Change of Address Policy

In an effort to maintain correct addresses on all of our members, and prevent your personal information and statements from going to obsolete addresses, we have the following policy to protect your account:

All address change information must be in writing and signed by the owner of the account. If we receive mail back with an incorrect address, we will make every effort to contact you by any and all means available to us. We will use any phone number or email address we have on file for you. We will try to contact you at work if possible. If we are unable to contact you in any way, we will temporarily freeze your account and hold your statements to safeguard your Credit Union mail from being delivered to the wrong address. As soon as we have your signed address change, we will release your account.
